Why is this work important?

“Triple P is not just a set of strategies. It’s a method for guiding families through a process in which they create and fine-tune a parenting plan and overcome the barriers that will come along with that plan. It is in guiding families through this process that real change occurs. Not only does family stress decrease and children’s positive behaviors increase, but parents become increasingly empowered to tackle current and future challenges with hope and the knowledge to do so well.”

- Anna (Triple P Practitioner)
